Audio Script

You must know that most cities and towns have indoor sports facility centres. They have opened these sorts of facilities in order to promote people's healthy lifestyles. So, let's consider the benefits that this brings. One of the biggest advantages is that if you want to do exercise, you don't have to worry about the weather all through the year. Although you can enjoy fresh air, there are many problems that can happen outside with sports. If you do sports outside, you will probably have problems sometimes with rain, snow, high winds and extreme temperature. With indoor sports facilities, this is never a problem. Matches and practices don't need to be canceled because of the weather. Another pro is that an indoor sports facility is a comfortable place to do sports. Most athletes enjoy climate control, efficient lighting systems, playing conditions, state-of-the-art equipment, and the different amenities. In these buildings, a great variety of activities and sports can be done because it offers different classes, equipment and spaces for the participants. Moreover, most families were seeing that not only could their children socialize with other children but that it is a safe place where they can be active while being under supervision. One last observation is that the town halls have to worry about the cost of maintaining public areas, and prefer to do this by creating a sports facility centre. It might be more economical because everything indoor is protected from the weather.
